

CASTINGS

Castings open up possibilities for us to functionally form complex contours with different materials.

For more than 130 years, the name Bruse has stood for the highest quality pressed brass. Castings, manufactured in sand and gravity die casting processes, extend our product range to achieve economy and to meet increasing customer requirements.

All kinds of different bronze, brass and aluminium alloys are used as casting materials. Our product design and employee team develops complete solutions to your specifications - from the concept to the finished product - from the product idea to the production conditions. We provide our customers with comprehensive support throughout the entire "design to manufacture process". From the casting and production-oriented, weight-optimized, visualized 3D prototypes to mould-making and the production of core boxes through to a lean, cost-efficient, machining manufacturing process in small and large series production.
